C. Main areas of concern and recommendations

1. General measures of implementation (arts. 4, 42 and 44, paragraph 6 of the Convention)

The Committee's Previous Recommendations

6. The Committee welcomes efforts by the State party to implement the Committee's 2002 concluding observations on the State party's second periodic report (CRC/C/15/Add.193). Nevertheless, the Committee regrets that some of its concerns and recommendations have been insufficiently or only partly addressed.
- 7. The Committee urges the State party to take all necessary measures to address those recommendations from the concluding observations of the second report that have not yet been implemented or sufficiently implemented, including those related notably to the definition of the child, the allocation of resources for children, early and forced marriages, ill treatment of children in police stations, child abuse and neglect and child labour. The Committee also recommends that the State party provide adequate follow-up to the recommendations contained in the present concluding observations on the combined third and fourth periodic report.

Legislation

8. The Committee commends the State party for the significant legislative reform undertaken in the field of child rights and the elaboration of a Child Code as previously recommended by the Committee (CRC/C/15/Add.193 para. 8). The Committee is however concerned that the draft code does not include all the principles and provisions of the Convention and is restricted to children in conflict with the law. It further notes with concern that the enjoyment of child rights continues to be negatively affected by the application of certain customary laws and weak law enforcement.

- 9. The Committee urges the State party to take, as a matter of priority, all appropriate measures to expedite the process of elaboration and adoption of the Child Code and ensure that it covers all the provisions of the Convention. The Committee also recommends that the State party improve awareness and implementation of its legislation, in particular among communities which continue to apply customary laws.

Coordination

10. The Committee, while noting that additional human resources were allocated to the Permanent Secretariat of the National Action Plan for the Survival, Protection and Development of Children (Comité National de suivi et d'évaluation du Plan d'Action National pour l'Enfance SP-PAN/ Enfance), is concerned that its budget remains insufficient to effectively carry out its coordinative role.
- 11. The Committee reiterates its previous recommendation (CRC/C/15/Add.193 para 12) that all necessary measures be taken to allocate sufficient human and financial resources to the coordination mechanism.

National Plan of Action

12. The Committee is concerned about the 8-year delay in adopting a new National Plan of Action for Children. The Committee notes that the Framework of Strategic Guidelines for Children's Promotion 2008-2017 (Cadre d'Orientations Stratégiques pour la Promotion de l'Enfant (COSPE) 2008-2017) adopted in October 2008 is serving as the new National Action Plan for the Survival, Protection and Development of Children. However, the Committee expresses concern that the implementation of the COSPE has not yet started.
- 13. The Committee urges the State party to proceed without delay with the implementation of the Framework of Strategic Guidelines for Children's Promotion 2008-2017. It calls upon the State party to provide further details in its next report about the concrete measure taken for its implementation.

Independent monitoring

14. The Committee notes with satisfaction the reform of the National Human Rights Institution on the basis of a law adopted by the Parliament on 21 December 2009. The Committee is however concerned that the source and level of funding of the National Human Rights Commission, the nomination/appointment and revocation processes of its member as well as its relations with the executive are likely to affect its independence and effective functioning.

15. Drawing attention to its General Comment No. 2 on the role of independent national institutions in the promotion and protection of the rights of the child (CRC/GC/2002/2), the Committee reiterates its recommendation that the State party consider the structure and functions of the National Commission on Human Rights, in accordance with the principles relating to the status of national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights (The Paris Principles) and enable it to cover child rights and empower it to receive, investigate and address complaints about violations of child rights in a child-sensitive manner. To this end, the Committee recommends that the State party allocate sufficient financial and human resources to the National Human Rights Commission and seek technical assistance from, among others the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR).

Allocation of Resources

16. While noting that an increasing part of the State party's budget is devoted to education and health, the Committee remains concerned at the low proportion of budgetary resources devoted to the implementation of the Convention. The Committee expresses concern that the sector of social action and national solidarity receives less than 1% of the national budget. The Committee also notes with concern that in the absence of specific budget allocations for children, the State party is still unable to monitor the impact of its budget allocations. It is further concerned that corruption continues to divert resources that could enhance the implementation of the rights of the child.
17. The Committee urges the State party, taking into account the Committee's recommendations during its Day of General Discussion in 2007 on "Resources for the Rights of the Child - Responsibility of States", to :
- a) Increase the proportion of the budget allocated to the realization of children's rights to the "maximum extent ... of available resources" and, in this context, ensure the provision, including through international cooperation, of appropriate human resources and to guarantee that the implementation of policies relating to social services provided to child survival, development, protection and well being remain a priority;
 - b) Utilize a child right's approach in the elaboration of the State budget by implementing a tracking system for the allocation and the use of resources for children throughout the budget, thus providing visibility to the investment on children. The Committee also urges that this tracking system be used for impact assessments on how investments in any sector may serve the best interests of the child, ensuring that the differential impact of such investment on girls and boys is measured;
 - c) Ensure transparent and participatory budgeting through public dialogue and participation, especially that of children, and for proper accountability by local authorities;
 - d) Define strategic budgetary lines for disadvantaged or particularly vulnerable children and for those situations that may require affirmative social measures (such as birth registration, training of teachers and health workers) and make

- sure that those budgetary lines are protected even in situations of economic crisis, natural disasters or other emergencies;
- e) Strengthen its anti-corruption mechanisms, implement existing legislation to combat corruption, and undertake investigations, and prosecute cases of corruption in the use of budgetary resources, especially for children; and
 - f) Seek assistance through international assistance, including from UNICEF, in implementing those recommendations.

Data collection

18. While noting the establishment of a permanent data collection system has been launched in 2002, the Committee expresses concern that this system is not yet operational as reflected by the lack of up-to-date, comprehensive and disaggregated data and information in the State party's report on all the areas covered by the Convention. The Committee is also concerned that the population census of 2006 was not used to collect data on children including on children in need of special protection.-
19. The Committee encourages the State party to continue to strengthen its data collection system with the support of its partners and to use this data as a basis for assessing progress achieved in the realization of child rights and to help design policies to implement the Convention. The Committee reminds the State party of its previous recommendation (CRC/C/15/Add.193 para. 18) stating that the data should cover all children up to the age of 18 years and be disaggregated by sex, age, urban and rural area with specific emphasis on groups of vulnerable children, including child victims of abuse, neglect or ill-treatment, children with disabilities, refugee and asylum-seeking children, children in conflict with the law, working children, and street children.

Dissemination, training and awareness-raising

20. The Committee is concerned that in spite of the measures taken by the State party to disseminate the Convention, most of the children remain unaware of their rights. The Committee also notes with concern that the trainings provided to, inter alia, magistrates, lawyers, police and military forces as well as to traditional leaders, remain insufficient.
21. The Committee urges the State party to:
- a) Broadly disseminate the Convention in all the local languages so as to ensure that the provisions of the Convention are widely known and understood by children and their families;
 - b) Include human rights and child rights in the curricula of schools at all levels;
 - c) Expand adequate and systematic training of all professional groups working for and with children; and
 - d) Regularly assess the impact of its awareness-raising activities.

Cooperation with civil society

22. The Committee commends the State party's assertion about the necessity to better coordinate the efforts of all stakeholders working on child rights. However, the Committee notes that the Permanent Secretariat of the National Action Plan for the Survival, Protection and Development of Children lacks a comprehensive view of all the organizations/ associations working in this field.
- 23. The Committee urges the State party to promptly establish a directory of all the national actors working on children rights and to systematically involve communities and civil society, including children's organizations, throughout all stages of implementation of CRC.

Definition of the child (art. 1 of the Convention)

24. The Committee expresses concern at the disparity in the age of marriage between girls (17 years) and boys (20 years) and notes that possibility in exceptional circumstances to lower the girl's legal age of marriage to 15 years old.
- 25. The Committee urges the State party to set the minimum age for marriage for girls and boys at 18 years and to penalize early and forced marriage.

3. General principles (arts. 2, 3, 6 and 12 of the Convention)

Non-discrimination

26. The Committee reiterates the concern previously expressed at the persistence of de facto discrimination against children belonging to the most vulnerable groups, such as children with disabilities and children living in rural areas, among whom girls are often disproportionately affected.
- 27. The Committee recommends that the State party increase its efforts to review, monitor and ensure implementation of legislation guaranteeing the principle of non-discrimination and full compliance with article 2 of the Convention, and adopt a proactive and comprehensive strategy to eliminate discrimination on gender, ethnic, religious or any other grounds and against all vulnerable groups of children throughout the country.

Best Interests of the Child

28. While noting that the best interests of the child is reflected as a general principle in some legislations concerning children, the Committee expresses concern at the insufficient information provided by the State party on how it is taken into consideration and effectively applied in State's legislative, administrative and judicial decisions, as well as in policies and programmes relevant to children.

- 29. The Committee draws the attention of the State party to its General Comment No.5 on the “General measures of implementation of the Convention on the Rights of the Child” and recommends that the State party take active measures throughout Government, parliament and the judiciary to ensure that every legislative, administrative and judicial body or institution apply the best interests principle by systematically considering how children’s rights and interests are or will be affected by their decisions and actions - by, for example, a proposed or existing law or policy or administrative action or court decision, including those which are not directly concerned with children, but indirectly affect children.

The right to life, survival and development

30. The Committee expresses concern at the extremely high number of road accidents, of which children are victims. While noting the initiatives already taken, the Committee is concerned that they remain too limited to effectively address the situation.
- 31. The Committee recommends that the State party strengthen its efforts to decrease the number of child victims of road accidents by systematically enforcing the existing regulations and by introducing awareness-raising campaigns and education programmes aimed at parents, children and the public at large.

Respect for the views of the child

32. The Committee expresses concern at the lack of information provided by the State party about the respect for the views of the child and at the absence of legal recognition of this right, specifically in schools and communities. The Committee is also further concerned that misperceptions of children and societal attitudes continue to negatively impact on their rights, especially their right to freely express their views within family, schools and communities. While noting the State party’s assertion that the national Child Parliament is consulted for all the important decisions taken at national level, the Committee is however concerned that its consultation once a year is reportedly a formality and that its work is not well known by the children themselves.

33. The Committee urges the State party to:

- a) Pay further attention to the right of every child to be heard in the family, at school, within other institutions and bodies, in the community and in society at large, with special emphasis to gender stereotypes and patriarchal values which undermine and place severe limitations on girl’s enjoyment of this right;
- b) Incorporate this right into all laws, policies and programmes relating to children and to establish clear mechanisms to facilitate the participation of children;

- c) Develop specific and clear guidelines on how the views presented by children of the Child Parliament are taken into account by the formal political process and policy making be established;
- d) Further develop the Child Parliament as an independent and democratic body and establish child parliaments at regional and local levels;
- e) Provide children with adequate response to their proposals; and
- f) Take into account its General Comment No. 12 on the right of the child to be heard (CRC/C/GC/12).

4. Civil rights and freedoms
(arts. 7, 8, 13-17, 19 and 37(a) of the Convention)

Birth registration

34. The Committee, while noting the State party's significant efforts to increase birth registration in particular the activities conducted in 2009, declared as Universal and Free Birth Registration Year, remains concerned that one third of children remain unregistered at birth, owing mainly to the geographical distance of the registration services, the insufficient resources allocated to them and the cost of birth registration. The Committee is also concerned that children born outside of the State party may not have birth certificates or other substitute certificates which may prevent their access to social services
- 35. The Committee urges the State party to strengthen its efforts to establish a national system of free birth registration which should be sustainable and available including in the most remote areas of the State party by the provision of decentralized registration offices with the necessary human, material and financial resources. The Committee also recommends the State party to strengthen its awareness-raising activities about birth registration. The Committee further urges the State party to ensure that refugee children are provided with a birth certificate and that unregistered children are not deprived access to social services.

Access to appropriate information

36. The Committee takes note of the opening of several libraries for children in the State party, including in the rural regions. However, the Committee is concerned that children still have a limited access to appropriate information which is mainly disseminated only in French, a language that most children do not understand. The Committee is also concerned that no information was provided by the State party on the measures undertaken to guarantee access to information to children with disabilities. The Committee is further concerned that children are increasingly exposed to inappropriate or offensive material through access to internet.
- 37. The Committee recommends that the State increase its efforts to provide children with access to appropriate information in all the State party's languages and pay particular attention to the most disadvantaged children, among them, girls, children with disabilities and children living in rural and remote areas. The Committee also recommends that the State party consider adopting specific legislation and develop appropriate guidelines to protect children from information and material injurious to their well-being, in accordance with article 17 (e) of the Convention.

Torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment

38. The Committee expresses serious concern at the lack of concrete measures taken by the State party to follow up on the previous recommendations of the Committee on the conditions of detention of children in police or gendarmerie stations and the methods used by law enforcement officials (CRC/C/15/Add.193 paras. 30 and 31) which are still reported and which constitute a grave violation of article 37 b) of the Convention. The Committee is also gravely concerned that in some of the State party's places of detention, children continue to be detained together with adults.
- 39. The Committee urges the State party to investigate, prosecute and punish any case of mistreatment committed by law enforcement personnel, including prisons guards, and establish an independent, child-sensitive and accessible system for receiving and dealing with complaints. Referring to its General Comment No. 10 on Children's Rights in Juvenile Justice, the Committee also calls upon the State party to urgently and effectively establish separate facilities for children deprived of their liberty, which include distinct child-centered staff, personnel, policies and practices and ensure children's right to promptly access to legal and other appropriate assistance.

Corporal punishment

40. The Committee, while welcoming the circular sent by the Education Ministry to the schools stressing the adverse consequences of corporal punishment as well as the creation of a National Council against Violence in Education areas, notes with great concern that children are commonly beaten, whipped, insulted and humiliated by their teachers. The Committee also notes with concern that in spite of existing laws, corporal punishment continue to be widely practiced in alternate care settings, in situations of employment and in the homes where they remain lawful.
- 41. The Committee urges the State party to take all the necessary measures to eradicate corporal punishment, and in particular:
- a) Explicitly prohibit corporal punishment by law in the family and all childrearing and ensure that those laws are and effectively implemented and that legal proceedings are systematically initiated against those responsible of mistreating children;
 - b) Conduct a comprehensive study to assess the causes, nature and extent of corporal punishment;
 - c) Introduce public education, awareness-raising and social mobilization campaigns on the harmful effects of corporal punishment with a view to changing the general attitude towards this practice and promote positive, non-violent, participatory forms of child-rearing and education;

- (d) Ensure that an educational programmes be undertaken against corporal punishment, insisting both on the child rights and psychological aspects; and
- (e) Take into General Comment No. 8 (2006) on the right of the child to protection from corporal punishment and other cruel or degrading forms of punishment and recommends.

Follow-up to the United Nations Study on Violence against Children

42. The Committee while commending the national surveys on violence against children and women conducted in 2008, expresses concern that while these surveys revealed widespread violence throughout the State party and especially in the family environment and the school system, the capacity of the Government to respond to violence against children has remained very limited. It also notes with concern the emergence of new forms of violence, notably, paedophilia, child pornography, cyber crimes and itinerant pimps.

43. The Committee encourages the State party to prioritize elimination of all forms of violence against children. With reference to the United Nations Study on Violence against Children (A/61/299), the Committee recommends that the State party:

- a) Take all necessary measures to implement recommendations of the United Nations Study on violence against children, taking into account the outcome and recommendations of the Regional Consultations for West and Central Africa (held in Bamako, from 23-25 May 2005). In particular, the Committee recommends that the State party pay particular attention to the following recommendations:
 - (i) Prohibit all forms of violence against children
 - (ii) Strengthen national and local commitment and action
 - (iii) Promote non-violent values and awareness-raising
 - (iv) Enhance the capacity of all who work with and for children
 - (v) Ensure accountability and end impunity
- b) Use the recommendations of the Study as a tool for action in partnership with civil society and, in particular, with the involvement of children to ensure that all children are protected from all forms of physical, sexual and psychological violence and to gain momentum for concrete and time bound actions to prevent and respond to such violence and abuse;
- c) Provide 3-digit, toll-free, 24-hour national helpline for children, in collaboration with UNICEF and other partners; and
- d) Seek technical cooperation in this respect from the Secretary General's Special Representative on Violence Against Children, OHCHR, UNICEF and the World Health organization (WHO), and other relevant agencies, inter alia, the International Labour Organization (ILO), the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), as well as NGO partners.

5. Family environment and alternative care
(arts. 5, 18 (paras.1-2), 9-11, 19-21, 25, 27 (para.4) and 39 of the Convention)

Family environment

44. The Committee notes with interest the educational debates organized as part of the National Policy on Education to Family Life as well as the adoption in July 2009 of the Gender Policy. However, the Committee shares the concerns expressed by the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW/C/BFA/CO/4-5 para. 27) over the strong prevalence of patriarchal attitudes as well as deep-rooted stereotypes, customs and traditions that discriminate against women and negatively impact on children, especially on girls, among them the practice according to which children belong exclusively to their father, the persistence of polygamy, levirate and sororate, dowry and practices that prevent women from owning land and inheriting from their husbands. The Committee is further concerned about the scale of domestic violence in the State party.
- 45. The Committee urges the State party to ensure effective implementation of its National Gender Policy and to strengthen its National Policy on Education to Family Life and set up educational specific programmes for parents and children that challenge discriminatory customs and traditions and stereotypic attitudes regarding the roles and responsibilities of women and girls in the family and promote equal sharing of parental responsibility. The Committee also urges the State party to discourage polygamy by applying legal and administrative measures and conducting awareness-raising campaigns on its adverse effects on children. The Committee further urges the State party to take all the necessary measures to combat domestic violence.

Children deprived of their family environment

46. The Committee notes the services provided by the Directorate for the Protection of the Child and Adolescent to safeguard the child at risk and reinsert adolescents in difficulty, as well as the opening in 2008 of a new reception and social insertion structure in the capital for abandoned children and young mothers in distress. However, in spite of an increasing number of orphaned children in the State party, notably as a result of HIV/AIDS as well as the recent phenomenon of abandonment of newborn children and teenage girls being chased from their families because of their pregnancies, the Committee notes with concern that:
- a) Most of the institutions caring for children deprived of their family environment are private with limited funding and supervision from the State party;
 - b) The legal framework regulating the opening, functioning and supervision of the institutions caring for orphans and other vulnerable children has not yet been adopted;
 - c) Children are increasingly placed in those institutions rather than in a family type environment; and that
 - d) Limited support and funding are provided by the State party to foster families and orphanages.

- 47. The Committee recommends that the State party:

- a) Urgently develop an effective alternative care strategy and monitoring systems, taking into account the Guidelines for the Alternative Care of Children contained in United Nations General Assembly Resolution A/RES/64/142 adopted on 20 November 2009;
- b) Promptly adopt and implement the legal regulating framework for the opening, functioning and supervision of the institutions caring for orphans and other vulnerable children and ensure regular reviews and inspections, of all orphanages and children's homes ;
- c) Promote and support family-type forms of alternative care for children deprived of parental care, including foster care in order to reduce the resort to residential care;
- d) Provide adequate funding and training, including on the provisions of the Convention for care-givers and personnel of alternative care institutions.

Adoption

48. The Committee notes with concern the absence of significant measures taken to end the practices of "confiage" which is often synonym of exploitation of children as domestic and exposure to several forms of abuse and violence. The Committee is also concerned at the insufficient progress made by the State party to implement the Hague Convention No. 33 on Protection of Children and Co-operation in respect of Intercountry Adoption to which the State is a party and especially the principle of subsidiarity. The Committee notes in particular the lack of legal provisions on the necessity to take into account the best interests of the child in evaluations and on the minimum duration before the consent to adoption can be given by biological parents.
- 49. The Committee reiterates its previous recommendation (CRC/C/15/Add.193 para. 35) to urgently take all necessary measures aiming at ending the practice of confiage. The Committee also urges the State party to take all necessary measures to promote domestic adoptions, ensure respect for "subsidiarity principle" so that intercountry adoption will only be considered after all possibilities for domestic adoption have been exhausted. The Committee further urges the State party to put its legislation in accordance with the Hague Convention No. 33 on Protection of Children and Co-operation in respect of Intercountry Adoption.

Abuse and neglect

50. The Committee expresses serious concern at the high prevalence of abuse and neglect of children in the family environment and at the insufficient measures taken to combat this problem. While noting the opening in 2002 in Ouagadougou of a Centre for children victims of abuse, the Committee is particularly concerned about the absence of a specific legislation on domestic violence, the lack of appropriate complaint procedure for children, and the still very limited number of children who have access to psychological care, recovery and reintegration services. The Committee is also concerned about the impunity enjoyed by those responsible for abusing children as illustrated by the cases reported to the Committee by the State party which have not led to any prosecution.

51. The Committee urges the State party to:

- a) Assess the scope, nature and causes of child abuse and neglect with a view to adopting a comprehensive strategy;
- b) Adopt inclusive and rights-based legal framework that addresses child abuse and neglect and domestic violence;
- c) Ensure that there is effective system accessible to children for receiving, monitoring and investigating reports of abuse and neglect, in manner which is child-sensitive;
- d) Promptly investigate cases of abuse and neglect and apply sanctions against perpetrators;
- e) Develop awareness-raising campaigns, with involvement of children, in order to prevent and combat child abuse and neglect;
- f) Ensure psychological and legal support for children victims of abuse or neglect.

6. Basic health and welfare

(arts. 6, 18 (para.3), 23, 24, 26, 27 (paras.1-3) of the Convention)

Children with disabilities

52. The Committee takes notes of the current adoption of a Law and a Strategy on the protection of disabled persons as well as the creation in 2005 of a multisectoral committee for the equalization of opportunities for persons with disabilities. However, while the Committee notes that efforts were made to provide children with disabilities with financial support and school opportunities, it expresses concern that children with disabilities continue to have a limited access to appropriate health care, education and job opportunities. The Committee is also concerned that in spite of the strong advocacy by the Coalition of Associations for the Promotion of People living with a Handicap, no data was collected during the 2006 census about people with disabilities and no study conducted into the causes of disabilities, which precludes effective planning for prevention and appropriate care.

53. While adopting its Law and Strategy on disabled persons, the Committee urges the State carefully review and implement the previous recommendations of the Committee (CRC/C/15/Add.193 para. 47) and to:

- a) Carry out studies to assess the nature causes of disabilities in the State party;
- b) Ensure the use of adequate and comprehensive data in the development of policies and programmes for children with disabilities;
- c) Review the situation of these children in terms of their access to suitable health care, education services and employment opportunities;
- d) Allocate adequate resources to strengthen services for children with disabilities, support their families and train professionals in the field;
- e) Strengthen policies and programmes of inclusion in regular education, train teachers and make schools accessible;
- f) Sensitize the population to the human rights of children with disabilities;

- g) Seek assistance from, among others, UNICEF and WHO; and
- h) Take into account the Committee's General Comment No. 9 on the rights of children with disabilities (CRC/C/GC/9, 2006)

Health and access to health services

54. The Committee notes with satisfaction the efforts undertaken by the State party, among them the adoption of the National Health Development Plan (2001-2010) as well as the increased resources devoted to develop the healthcare sector which led, inter alia, to the reduction of maternal and infant mortality, the improvement of the nutritional situation of children under the age of 5, and to a better immunization of children. The Committee remains however concerned that:

- a) Maternal and infant mortality rates though decreasing remain high;
- b) The major causes of child mortality are preventable and treatable diseases such as malaria, respiratory illnesses, diarrhea and vaccine-preventable diseases;
- c) High levels of malnutrition remain widespread throughout the country, especially in the northern regions;
- d) Health services are inadequate in terms of coverage and quality and underutilized by the poor and vulnerable groups;
- e) Only 19% of children under six months of age are exclusively breastfed.

55. The Committee recommends that the State party continue to prioritize the allocation of financial and human resources to the health sector, in order to ensure equal access to quality health services by all children including children living in the most remote areas of the country. Furthermore, the Committee recommends that the State party strengthen its efforts to improve the health situation of children, including through:

- a) Continuing to ensure the provision of necessary medical assistance and health-care access to all children with emphasis on the development of primary health care;
- b) Strengthening its efforts to further reduce infant and child mortality, especially by focusing on preventive measures and treatment, including vaccination uptakes; improved nutrition and sanitary conditions, greater access to clean drinking water, and the management of communicable diseases and malaria;
- c) Increasing its efforts to further reduce maternal mortality throughout the country, including generalization of specific actions to prevent post-partum bleeding and other major causes of maternal death;
- d) Pursuing immunization efforts, including through improved outreach activities and immunization of "drop-out" children, and efficient implementation of the full package of integrated interventions in all health districts;
- e) Ensuring that all segments of the society are informed, have access to education on and support on the use of basic knowledge of child health and nutrition, including the advantages of exclusive breastfeeding for children up to 6 months;
- f) Seek technical cooperation from UNICEF and WHO.

Adolescent health

56. The Committee notes with satisfaction the adoption in 2008 of a National Youth Policy, the Act No. 049-2005/AN of 22 December 2005 on reproductive health and a Plan for improving health of young persons (2004-2008). However, the Committee expresses serious concern at the high number of teenage girl's death due to unsafe and clandestine abortions and at the increasing incidence of sexually transmitted diseases, including HIV/AIDS, among adolescents.
- 57. The Committee draws the State party's attention to its General Comment No. 4 on adolescent health and development and joins the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW/C/BFA/CO/4-5 para. 36) in recommending the State party to improve the availability of sexual and reproductive health services, including family planning, to enhance the availability of contraceptive services and to promote sex education targeted at girls and boys, with special attention to the prevention of early pregnancies and sexually transmitted diseases. The Committee also calls upon the State party to review its legislation concerning abortion, with the view notably to guaranteeing the best interests of pregnant teenagers.

Harmful Traditional Practices

58. The Committee commends the commitment at the highest State levels in the fight against female genital mutilation (FGM) and the complementary initiatives undertaken including the setting up of a national hotline. The Committee remains however concerned at the still high prevalence of FGM, the rise in infant FGM, especially in the North of the country, and the low sanctions pronounced against those who subject children to genital mutilation. The Committee is also seriously concerned that in spite of the high rate of early and forced marriage in the State party, limited measures have been taken to prevent, prohibit and punish these practices.

59. The Committee calls upon the State party to:

- a) Pursue its efforts to eradicate FGM throughout its territory notably by better coordinating anti-FGM related activities, ensuring that offenders are prosecuted and adequately punished and continuing awareness-raising efforts to change cultural perceptions connected with female genital mutilation;
- b) Reinforce cooperation with neighbouring countries in the region to combat FGM;
- c) Implement measures to ensure that traditional marriage practices, including forced marriages, which are harmful to children are prohibited through, inter alia, adoption and implementation of appropriate legislation;
- d) Undertake sensitization campaigns, especially among local traditional leaders, on negative impact that early and forced marriage has, particularly on girls;
- e) Provide shelters to girls who escape forced and early marriage.

HIV/AIDS

60. The Committee notes with satisfaction the adoption of National Strategic Framework (2006-2010) to combat HIV/AIDS, the creation of a National Council to Combat HIV headed by the President himself and the adoption of a Strategic framework for the Orphans and Vulnerable Children (2005-2014). While the Committee notes with satisfaction the continuous decrease in national HIV prevalence, it is however concerned that:

- a) Only 10% of HIV infected children receive medical care because of the lack of available health structures to care for them and the reluctance of families to have their children tested;
- b) Population coverage for PMTCT remains at a low level and early infant diagnosis of HIV is very limited;
- c) Children living with HIV continue to be stigmatized;
- d) The formulation of the Strategic Plan for Orphan and Vulnerable Children was not preceded by the collect of precise data about HIV orphans, among them children heads of households;
- e) The coordination of services for orphans and vulnerable children remains poor;
- f) Children and parents are not sufficiently sensitized about HIV/AIDS, including modes of HIV transmission and precautionary measures such as use of condoms, among adolescents.

61. In light of the Committee's General Comment No. 3 (2003) on HIV/AIDS and the rights of the child and the International Guidelines on HIV/AIDS and Human Rights, the Committee recommends that the State party:

- a) Ensure universal and cost-free access to antiretroviral therapy;
- b) Strengthen measures to expand facilities and medical training for diagnosis and treatment of HIV infected children;
- c) Strengthen efforts to combat discrimination against children infected with HIV and/or affected by HIV/AIDS;
- d) Strengthen its efforts to prevent mother-to-child transmission of HIV and to improve availability of contraceptives throughout the country;
- e) Take steps to collect disaggregated data on prevalence of HIV/AIDS in State and on HIV orphans, which can be used for the development, implementation and monitoring of policies and programmes;
- f) Involve children in programme of fight against HIV/AIDS, in particular by ensuring that more attention is given to issue of children and HIV/AIDS;
- g) Improve protective and preventive support for AIDS orphans.

Right to an adequate standard of living

62. The Committee welcomes the adoption of a National Plan of Action for the Protection and Promotion of the Family in 2008 and the current formulation of a Strategy for Accelerated Development. However, the Committee notes with concern that a large proportion of the State party's families and children continue to live in extreme poverty, especially in rural areas. The Committee is also concerned at the absence of a social security system in the State party and the still limited coverage of the existing social assistance programmes.

- 63. In accordance with art 27 CRC, the Committee urges the State party to increase its efforts to raise the standard of living among rural and urban population living in poverty. The Committee recommends that the promotion and protection of all children's rights be fully integrated into the Strategy for Accelerated Development and that priority be given to the establishment a social security system and the provision of increased material assistance and support to economically disadvantaged children and their families. The Committee further urges the State party to provide precise information on the implementation of its Strategy for Accelerated Development in its next periodic report.

7. Education, leisure and cultural activities (arts. 28,29 and 31 of the Convention)

Education including vocational training and guidance

64. The Committee commends the adoption of a Ten Year Development Plan for Basic Education (PDDEB), the development since 2009 of a national vocational training and guidance policy as well as the continuous increase in the budget allocations to the education sector which have led to improvements in relation to school infrastructure, teacher's recruitment, primary school enrolment and pre-school education as well as the abolition of school fees. The Committee is however concerned that:

- a) Primary enrolment is still far too low;
- b) Only 2,8% of the GDP is devoted to the education sector and families are still responsible to pay for school supplies which limits children's effective access to education;
- c) Children are exposed to grave forms of physical and psychological violence in schools, particularly girls who are at risk of being sexually abused by teachers;
- d) School enrolment at secondary level remains at an extremely low level ;
- e) Significant disparities persist in accessing education between provinces, urban and rural areas and between girls and boys;
- f) The teacher-student ratio has not decreased to an acceptable level;
- g) The illiteracy rate remains at a very high level;
- h) Vocational education and training is available for a minority of children only; and that
- i) The attendance of early childhood programmes and facilities is extremely low.

65. The Committee recommends that the State party:

- a) Strengthen its efforts to ensure compulsory and free primary schooling for all children notably by constructing and setting up new schools, expanding the infrastructure for education, recruiting an training more teachers;
- b) Ensure adequate funding of the public education system by further increasing the percentage of the GDP allocated to the education sector;

- c) Design strategies to prevent the occurrence of violence in schools and encourage school and health services to detect and report evidence of abuse, ensure full and unannounced inspection of school facilities and wide publicity of the investigations conducted;
- d) Continue to take measures to increase the availability of and enrolment rates in secondary education and facilitate access to secondary education;
- e) Reduce disparities among provinces in access to and full enjoyment of the right to education;
- f) Expand the system of vocational training institutions and make sure that also children who have dropped out of school also have access to it;
- g) Increase access to early childhood development and education programmes and facilities, including community-based and parents programmes, in all regions of the State party; and
- h) Take into consideration General Comment No. 1 on the aims of education of 2001 and General Comment No.7 on Implementing child rights in early childhood of 2005.

8. Special protection measures
(arts. 22, 38, 39, 40, 37(b) and (d), 30, 32-36 of the Convention)

Repatriated children

66. The Committee expresses serious concern at the insufficient measures taken to support the thousands of children and their families repatriated from Côte d'Ivoire between 1999 and 2004. The Committee is concerned that repatriated children who have suffered several forms of psychological trauma have not been provided with psycho-social assistance. The Committee is also concerned that repatriated children suffer extreme poverty and malnutrition owing mainly to their families' limited access to land in the State party. The Committee is further concerned that family disintegration have led a high proportion of repatriated children to live in foster families where they are subjected to various forms of violence and neglect.

67. The Committee urges the State party to take concrete actions to support the integration of repatriated families and children and in particular to:

- a) Provide social services with the necessary human and financial resources for them to effectively support the psycho-social integration of repatriated children;
- b) Ensure access to land of repatriated families for them to live full and decent life;
- c) Take the necessary measures to combat stigmatization of repatriated children and promote their integration in their communities; and
- d) Seek assistance from UNHCR, UNICEF and WHO in this regard.

Economic exploitation, including child labour

68. The Committee welcomes the Act No. 028-2008/AN of 13 May 2008 issuing the Labour Code which prescribes 16 years as the minimum age for access to any kind of employment or work, thus aligning this age to the age of compulsory schooling. However, the Committee expresses concerns that:

- a) Exploitation of child labour is a common practice throughout the State party, with 47% of children between 5 to 14 years being economically active, most of them in the agricultural sector;
- b) Migration and trafficking of children for economic exploitation in the State party's cotton farms where they are notably exposed to harmful pesticides is widespread;
- c) Children continue to work in extremely dangerous conditions, especially in gold mines and as domestic servants, a situation that often expose girl child subjected to multiple forms of abuse;
- d) There is no mechanism to protect children who are working in the informal sector;
- e) The Plan of Action against child labour elaborated in 2008 has still not been adopted; and
- f) The labour inspectorate and police face shortages of qualified staff, adequate funds and training to carry out their mandates.

69. The Committee urges the State party to :

- a) Promptly adopt the Plan of Action against child labour elaborated in 2008;
- b) Give priority to addressing vulnerable situation of child domestic workers and children working in dangerous conditions in cotton farms;
- c) Put its legislation in conformity with ILO Conventions 138 and 182 and to put in place mechanisms to protect working children, including by children working in the informal sector;
- d) Strengthen the labour inspectorate to ensure effective implementation of child labour laws, both in formal and informal sectors; and
- e) Continue seeking assistance from ILO and UNICEF.

Children in Street Situations

70. The Committee takes note of the strengthening of the Non-Institutional Educational Action (AEMO), a programme that provides assistance to boys living in the street of the main cities of the State party. It also notes as positive the creation of a National Committee for Combating Begging by Children. However, the Committee expresses concerns at :

- a) The increasing number of children living in the street and at their limited access to health, education and other social services;
- b) Children living in the street are subjected to police brutality, sexual abuse and economic exploitation.
- c) Girls living in the street who do not benefit from the AEMO protection programme;
- d) The insufficient resources allocated to AEMO programme which undermines the effective protection, rehabilitation and social integration of children living in the street;
- e) The increasing number of "garibous" children who are forced by religious leaders to beg in the street or trafficked to neighbouring countries for the same purpose; and at

- f) Parents sending out twins for begging in the street under the pretext of tradition.

71. The Committee urges the State party to study the causes and scope of the phenomenon of street children and ensure that :

- a) Children living in the street are provided with adequate nutrition, clothing, housing, health care and educational opportunities, including vocational and life-skills training, in order to support their full development;
- b) Children living in the streets are provided with protection from police brutality and services for reconciliation with their families, and that authors of violence against street children are prosecuted and punished;
- c) AEMO provide all boys and girls living in the street with protection, recovery and reintegration services;
- d) Additional resources be allocated to the AEMO programme for its effective implementation;
- e) The National Committee for Combating Begging by Children develop a comprehensive strategy to curb the practice of sending children to beg in the street; and that
- f) Religious leaders and parents who send children to beg in the streets as well as those who perpetrate abuse against those children are brought to justice.

Sexual exploitation and abuse

72. The Committee while welcoming the ratification by the State party of the Optional Protocol to the Convention on the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography and the adoption of a National Action Plan against Trafficking in human being which covers sexual violence against children, expresses concern that child prostitution is on the rise in all provinces of the State party and that children are increasingly trafficked from rural to urban areas and from neighbouring countries for sexual exploitation. The Committee also expresses deep concern at the extremely low sanctions pronounced against persons committing paedophilia.

73. The Committee recommends that the State party:

- a) Intensify its efforts to tackle child prostitution and child trafficking for sexual exploitation;
- b) Take appropriate measures to ensure that those who perpetrate sexual offences against children are effectively punished with sanctions proportionate with their crime;
- c) Ensure that child victims of sexual exploitation or abuse have access to free, child-sensitive complaints mechanisms and provide support to children denouncing sexual abuse;
- d) Continue to implement appropriate policies and programmes for prevention, recovery and social reintegration of child victims, in accordance with the outcomes of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd World Congresses against Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children of 1996, 2001 and 2008 as well as the outcome of other international conferences on this issue.

Sale, trafficking and abduction

74. The Committee welcomes the adoption of Act No. No. 029-2008 on Combating Trafficking in Persons and Related Practices of 15 May 2008 and of a National Plan of Action against Trafficking in Persons in April 2007. The Committee also notes with satisfaction that several multilateral cooperation agreements were signed between 2004 and 2006 with neighbouring countries and the establishment of vigilance and supervision committees, the increased number of children intercepted and trafficking offenders brought to justice. However, the Committee notes that in spite of these efforts,

- a) Trafficking in children within and from the State party for domestic servitude, sexual exploitation, forced labor in gold mines, stone quarries, and the agriculture sector remain widespread;
- b) Police do not exhibit any systematic effort to identify trafficking victims, among them women and girls in prostitution;
- c) Extremely low sentences are pronounced against those trafficking children.
- d) No legal alternatives are provided to the removal of foreign victims to countries where they face hardship or retribution;
- e) The 2007 National Action Plan against Trafficking in Persons has been insufficiently implemented due to a lack of appropriate funding;

75. The Committee recommends that the State party:

- a) Undertake awareness-raising educational measures to prevent and eliminate women and child trafficking, in particular by supporting the current efforts undertaken by NGOs;
- b) Ensure proper investigation in cases of child trafficking by notably training police and government social workers to identify trafficking victims
- c) Ensure systematic prosecution of the perpetrators and impose adequate sentences for such crimes;
- d) Provide foreign victims legal alternatives to removal to countries where they may face hardship and retribution and establish a regional prevention and response mechanism including comprehensive data collection;

Administration of juvenile justice

76. The Committee welcomes the Act N° 28-2004/AN of 8 September 2004 on judiciary organization, the appointment of two magistrates for children, the creation of two juvenile justice courts respectively in the tribunals and Courts of Appeal of Bobo-Dioulasso and the establishment of Child Protection Brigades. The Committee is however concerned that the magistrates for children have not been adequately trained and that in the absence of procedures governing the functioning of the juvenile justice system, the juvenile justice courts do not function. The Committee is also concerned that children in conflict with the law :

- a) Continue to be judged by adults courts throughout the State party;
- b) Are rarely provided with legal assistance¹ and can't benefit from legal assistance at the early stages of the proceedings;
- c) May be kept weeks in police custody;
- d) Are often placed in pre-trial detention for lengthy periods;
- e) Are liable to prison sentence up to 20 years;
- f) Continue to be detained together with adults in police stations and in detention facilities;
- g) Loose contact with their families while in detention, especially those who are jailed very far from their home because there is not detention facility in the provinces where they live; and
- h) Rarely benefit from educational measures in prison to facilitate their social reinsertion.

77. The Committee recommends that the State party continue its efforts to improve the juvenile justice system in conformity with articles 37 (b), 40 and 39 of the Convention, as well as the United Nations Standard Minimum Rules for the Administration of Juvenile Justice (the Beijing Rules), the United Nations Guidelines for the Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency (the Riyadh Guidelines) and the United Nations Rules for the Protection of Juveniles Deprived of their Liberty (the Havana Rules). While taking into account the Committee's General Comment No. 10 on the administration of juvenile justice (CRC/C/GC/10, 2007), the Committee also urges the State party to:

- a) Promptly adopt the rules of procedure which are necessary for the functioning of the new juvenile justice system in Ouagadougou and Bobodioulasso and introduce the institution of specialized judges in all the provinces;
- b) Until such time that the establishment of juvenile courts becomes possible in all provinces, take all measures to ensure that the review of criminal cases concerning children is conducted by judges trained accordingly;
- c) Ensure that public prosecutors and judges actively monitor arrest practices and conditions for children in police custody;
- d) Ensure that detention is applied as a measure of last resort and for the shortest possible period of time and be reviewed on a regular basis with a view of withdrawing it;

- g) Take all the urgent necessary measures to remove children from adult detention facilities;
- h) Ensure that children remain in contact with their families while in detention;
- i) Ensure that all children deprived of liberty have access to education, health and recreational facilities;
- j) Develop a multi-sectoral preventive response to child delinquency, such as supporting the role of families and communities in order to help eliminate the social conditions leading children to come into contact with the criminal justice system, and take all possible measures to avoid stigmatization; and
- k) Request further technical assistance in the area of juvenile justice and police training from the Interagency Panel on Juvenile Justice, which includes UNODC, UNICEF, OHCHR, and NGOs.

It also encourages the State party to accede to all core human rights instruments, including the second optional protocol to the international covenant on civil and political rights and ensure prompt compliance, implementation and reporting requirements in order to promote and improve the overall protection of human rights.

10. Follow-up and dissemination

Follow-up

79. The Committee recommends that the State party take all appropriate measures to ensure that the present recommendations are fully implemented, inter alia by transmitting them to the members of the Council of Ministers, the National Assembly and to local authorities, when applicable, for appropriate consideration and further action.

80. The Committee further recommends that the third and fourth periodic report and written replies submitted by the State party and the related recommendations (concluding observations) it adopted be made widely available in the languages of the country, including (but not exclusively) through the Internet to the public at large, civil society organizations, youth groups, professional groups and children, in order to generate debate and awareness of the Convention, its implementation and monitoring.
